FORMER MOKENA RESIDENT, 84, HONORED BY TOMMY BARTLETT

Of interest to old time residents of Mokena is an article which was published in the Radio Mirror recently, about Mrs. Anna Spitzer, 84, who now lives in Roseland. It tells of her interview by Tommy Bartlett on the Welcome Travelers radio program.

To quote Bartlett, "This spirited little person, 84 years young, smiled up at me and made me think of all the pictures of grandmothers and charming manner told me she was a kindly soul, who had devoted her life to taking care of others."

Mrs. Spitzer told her interviewer that she had been taking care of her husband to whom she was married for 64 years. After his passing she was lonely so she travelled the ten miles to see the man, personally, whose program she had enjoyed so much. She also told him that she was born in Mokena and went to Roseland as a bride.

Mrs. Spitzer's maiden name was Anna Ellwart and her father built and lived in the house on Front street, now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Hans Muehler. To Omit Name of Wm. B. Barrowman From Primary Ballot

By the death of William B. Barrowman, who was a candidate for sheriff on the Republican ticket, the question of his name appearing on the primary ballot caused much concern.

The last day of withdrawing a name from the ballot being past, State's Attorney Pearce gave an opinion to County Clerk Hartley that he believed the name should remain on the ballot. But last Saturday Circuit Judge James V. Bartley issued a temporary injunction to keep the name of the late William B. Barrowman off the official GOP primary ballot and sample ballot. Monday the injunction was made permanent.

Mr. Barrowman died suddenly in his home of a heart attack Sunday, February 26. Following his death, his widow and son presented a petition asking for the injunction to have his name omitted from the ballots.

New Law Effects Publishing Notices Of School Elections

School Boards are being asked to take special note of an important change in Election laws which will affect school board elections for the first time in 1950.

House Bill 503 passed by the 1949 legislature requires that:

"Notices of all elections in organized districts shall be given by the directors at least 10 days previous to the day of the election. The Notice shall be published at least once in one or more newspapers published in the district, or if no newspaper is published therein, then in one or more newspapers with a general circulation within the district."

Election notices shall specify the place where the election is to be held, the time of opening and closing the polls, and the questions to be submitted.

This new provision of the law requiring publication of election notices does not excuse school boards from posting election notices as has been done previously.

April 8 is the day on which all elections to elect new school board members are to be held in 1950.

Nominating petitions must be filed with the Clerk of the district not later than Saturday, March 18, 21 days prior to election, for those seeking election to boards in Board of Education school districts.

Nominating petitions for membership on school boards may be obtained from the Secretary of the school district, or from the Office of the County Superintendent of Schools.

In Board of Director districts three (3) member boards, a caucus is held just prior to the opening of the polls on election day to nominate candidates for membership on the school board.

A $70,000 fire which threatened a large part of the small village of Lincoln Estates, two miles east of Frankfort, occurred during the high wind early Wednesday morning.

As Jim Delaney, a neighbor, was returning from work about one o'clock Wednesday morning, he noticed fire coming from the Stock Furniture plant and at once gave the alarm and aroused the Stock family whose home is just north of the plant.

The Frankfort and Tinley Park Volunteer fire departments were called and responded at once. Because of the high wind, intense smoke and mud, they worked under severe handicap.

As far as can be ascertained, it seemed the fire started in the southwest corner of the plant in the boiler room area. The high wind coming in that direction carried the blaze quickly. In five minutes the whole factory was aflame. Just the day before two carloads of lumber had been received and stored in the plant, which together with all other supplies and equipment, were devoured by the fire. The heat was so intense that the concrete blocks of the building cracked and fell with a resounding noise. Sparks and burning embers were carried far and high and lighted on the many homes in the village. No one got any sleep after being aroused by the fire. In a short time the two story home of the owner, a few feet north of the plant was all in flames also, with but a few personal things being saved.

The Stock Furniture corporation, located on Hillside road about 1 1/2 blocks south of route 30, was built about three years ago by Frank Stock Sr., where they made frames for furniture, such as chairs, sofas etc. Ten people were employed. Frank Stock Jr. is the head of the corporation now and superintends the work. He and his family are being housed with his parents a few houses from his home which burned to the ground.

Mr. Stock, Jr., was so shocked by the sudden loss, that it was necessary to have medical attention for him.

It is said the loss is covered by insurance.

Should Electoral College Be Abolished?

For many years there has been agitation to change, through Constitutional amendment, our method of electing Presidents, by abolishing the electoral college system as it is now constituted and replacing it with a system based on the popular vote. It now looks as if this proposal has an excellent chance of becoming law.

If it does, it will revolutionize the established pattern of political campaigning.

Under the existing system, the candidate who gains a majority in a state gets the entire vote of the state in the electoral college. It doesn't make any difference how bare that majority may be. He might carry a state by but a single popular vote—yet he would get the whole electoral vote, and that is the vote that counts.

The constitutional amendment which is now pending provides that each candidate's electoral vote shall be proportionate to his popular vote. In other words, if a man received 51 per cent of a state's popular vote he would get that percentage of the state's electoral votes instead of all of it. And if, on the other hand, he got 49 per cent, he would be given that part of the electoral vote instead of none.

The influence this would have on campaign politics is obvious. For instance, the Republicans never spend much money or exert much effort in the Solid South. They know that their chance of gaining a majority in any of those states is but one short step removed from impossible. However, under the proposed new system, it would behoove the GOP to do its utmost in, say, Tennessee no less than in Ohio. Every Republican vote, even though the total was still modest, would help their candidate toward the White House.

By the same token, Democrats would no longer just go through the motions of campaigning in solidly Republican states such as Vermont. They'd be out to get the largest proportion of the vote as possible.

President Truman has said he doubts if the proposed change can be effected in time to influence the 1952 campaign. But, as Jay Hayden points out in one of his columns "All constitutional amendments recently adopted have run the gamut of state ratification in less time than would be available to complete enactment of the present proposal before 1952." The amendment repealing prohibition became law about ten months after it was submitted to the states. The amendment abolishing the "lame duck" session of Congress made the grade in 11 months. The amendment legalizing woman's suffrage was approved in 14 months.

In any event, it promises to cause important and far-reaching changes in the partisan political setup as it now exists.

Gets $330 Per Acre From L-G Pasture

As Cook County joins other counties in the state in a program to get a bigger acreage of legumes and grass on farms, Farm Adviser C. A. Hughes reports that more and more evidence is piling up on the dollars-and-cents value of legume-grass hay and pasture.

Mr. Hughes says he has a report from Henderson county that a 9.2 acre pasture of alfalfa, bromegrass and Ladino returned $330 an acre last year in dairy and hog profits.

The farm is operated by Earl Brokaw and his son-in-law, John Peasley, Jr. The men applied 300 pounds of superphosphate to the field in 1946 and another 250 pounds in the spring of 1948 when they seeded it to the alfalfa, bromegrass and Ladino mixture in an oats nurse crop.

From April 25 last year the pasture carried 12 dairy cows and 14 litters of pigs. Even though two of the cows were dry for two months, the herd produced 1,911.7 pounds of butterfat, valued at $1,820.12. The cows were fed 12,570 pounds of grain that cost $314.25, leaving a pasture profit of $1,505.87.

The hogs on the pasture were fed corn and supplement which cost $1,750. When the hogs came off the pasture, they were valued $3,050, making a difference of $1,550 over the cost of the corn and supplement.

The $1,501 profit for the dairy cows plus $1,550 for the hogs gives a total of $3,055. On a per-acre basis, that amounts to more than $330 to be credited to pasture, labor, overhead and interest on investment.

Mr. Hughes says many other farmers in this county and in other parts of the state have had similar experiences with good legume-grass pastures. Any farmers interested in increasing their acreage of legumes and grasses may want to get in touch with the farm adviser for help in planning rotations, seeding, mixtures and methods for renovating a pasture or seeding a new one.

F. Brown Candidate For County Clerk

Fred M. Brown, 602 Western avenue, Joliet, a veteran of World War I, and an outstanding leader of veterans' activities in Will County for many years, is seeking the Republican nomination for the office of county clerk in the April 11 primaries.

A past commander of Harwood Post, American Legion, Mr. Brown has devoted much of his spare time to Legion activities and has also been vitally interested in the welfare of the veteran. He is Poppy Day chairman for Joliet and Will county and co-chairman of the movement for the 11th Legion district. He has served four terms as head of the Will County Veterans' association.

Mr. Brown has championed the cause of the veteran regarding employment and other benefits. At the Illinois' American Legion convention in 1941, he was instrumental in having a resolution adopted to prevent plants engaged in war contracts from establishing an age limit in hiring men. The resolution was subsequently adopted by the National Legion convention. He fostered the resolution so that men over 40, particularly those who had served in the first world war, would stand an equal chance for employment in war plants.

Their son, Frederick, a student at Drake university, who served in World War II, was named chairman of the Young Republican club of Will county last year.

An army veteran, Mr. Brown served for 26 months, five of which he spent in Germany. Following the war he took a job as a salesman for a wholesale drug firm, a position he held for 21 years. He was also with the State Department of Revenue for 7½ years. He was recently employed at the Joliet Arsenal. Also a member of the Stone City Veterans of Foreign Wars.

There are three vital driving rules to memorize to protect your life and that of others under cold weather handicaps, the Chicago Motor Club advises. To have complete control of the car, the first essential is alertness; the second is consideration of others. The safety third is a wise choice of speed under all driving conditions.

New Type Spreader Hitch Saves Muscles

Grandma's old-fashioned hooks 'n' eyes down the side of her dress provided gentle pressure to keep hips and waist from spreading where they shouldn't—and generally, it was a "one-man" job. This same dependable method of hooking and unhooking also performs a time, work and muscle-saving service for the revolutionary new Ferguson Manure Spreader and Loader just announced by the local Ferguson Dealer. A similar hook 'n' eye device hitches and unhitches the Spreader hydraulically by means of the Finger 'T' Control of the Ferguson Tractor. The same control also hydraulically operates the Loader. One man with one tractor can do the entire loading and spreading job without leaving the tractor seat.

FARM WIFE WORTH $60,000

The next time your wife wants to buy a new hat, better not tell her she's wasting money, because she may come right back and remind you she's worth $60,000.

And she'd have figures from the Illinois College of Agriculture to back her up, too.

M. T. Mosher, extension farm management specialist, says that the average farm wife is worth $60,000 in extra income to her husband and family during their married life.

He based his figure on a study of farm earnings on 240 north-central Illinois farms for the 10 years 1936-45. A few of the farm operators were bachelors. They earned on the average $2,400 less each year than the married farm operators. That is net earnings. Yet both groups operated the same general size and type of farm.

This $2,400 difference capitalized at four percent amounts to $60,000. Or if you multiply the $2,400 difference each year by 25 years of married life, it would build up to a whopping $84,000.

George Pond, University of Minnesota farm management specialist, agrees with Mosher. He figures that a farm wife adds about $67,000 to family income on the average farm. It was Pond who first suggested the cash value of a wife in farm operation.

"I'm not insisting that marriage is the key to successful farming or that you'll automatically get $60,000 more income if you marry," Mosher cautioned. "But having a wife does help."

And $60,000 is a BIG help!

Church Leadership

Lesson for March 12, 1950.

"WHAT'S in a name?" Different churches have many different names for the persons who hold office in them. But whatever quarrels the churches have had, few of them are about these names. The thing is more important than the name. All of us agree that churches do need organization.

Some people would have us go back to the New Testament for our pattern of organization. We cannot quite do this, for one important reason. Where in the New Testament would you dig in? Would you take the letters to Timothy and Titus as your guide? There you find bishops (overseers, superintendents) mentioned, also elders and deacons, but you do not find their duties laid down.

Go back into the story of Acts and you will find a place where elders are first mentioned in the Christian church (11:30); go still farther back and you come to the first election of deacons (Acts 6).

In your first Utopian Church, will you model it after the three-officer plan, or two, or one, or (going back before Acts 6) none at all? (Apostles, of course, are not now available.)

Scholars in most churches today are pretty well agreed that what we have in the New Testament is not a rigid pattern of organization, but rather certain principles on which any successful church must be built. Let us see what some of these are.

The Job and the Man

ALL CHURCHES are agreed on one point: A church must have leadership. What is everybody's business is nobody's business. Some one must draw up plans, think ahead. No organization in the world is self-starting and self-operating, not even the church of Christ. The early church knew this. But they elected officers only as the need for them arose. In Jerusalem there was not a deacon in the place until that emergency came up in the matter of relief.

In St. Paul's first missionary church (Acts 13, 14) he did not get the elders first, and then find churches for them. On the contrary, he founded the churches first and then appointed elders for them.

It would be a good idea for a church today to take stock of its officers once in a while. Are they necessary? For example, do you elect a deacon to "take the place" of one who has moved away, or do you elect a deacon to do a job that can't otherwise be done?

Sweetness No Substitute For Skill

NOT ALL CHRISTIANS are qualified to hold office in the church, and very few, if any, would be equally good in any office. A Sunday school superintendent, for example, might make a poor showing at a prayer-meeting talk. A man who can conduct a successful financial campaign and keep the church up to a high level of generosity the year round, may not be just the man to plan the educational program. A lovely sweet lady might turn out to be a stupid Madam Chairman.

Paul knew all this and in fact insisted on it. Each separate kind of job in the church calls for distinct qualifications.

Just being a good Christian was never enough to insure a man's (or a woman's) being a good officer.

Personality

AFTER ALL, however, personal character means more than technical skill. A man may have such flaws in his character that his influence does more harm than good, so that even if he is an accomplished musician you still would not want him as "Minister of Music," or even as choir-leader.

A man whose own home is always at sixes and sevens (as Paul pointed out) is a poor candidate for any executive post in the church. A man who can't keep from quarrelling in everyday life is no man to entrust with responsibility in the church.

A man of good character can, and will want to, learn the skills his job calls for; but a man of sleazy character just does not care. Be careful of the sort of man you elect to office, in church or out; for the rank and file are not going to rise above their leaders.

Sugar Bush

By Roberts Mann,
Supt. of Conservation.

About this time of year in our northern states, when a cold clear night is followed by a warm sunny day, you know that spring is just around the corner and that, as they say in New England, "Sap's a-startin'." Then you see squirrels in the maple trees, nibbling at little icicles of sap from broken twigs or wounds in the bark.

For the farmer who owns a "sugar bush" - a grove of sugar maple trees - this means perhaps a month of hard tedious work for himself and his family and his hired help: tapping the trees, collecting the sap, and "boiling it down" into maple sugar and maple syrup. There will also be at least one "sugaring-off" party, at night, with hot buttered soda biscuits dunked in thin hot maple syrup, and maple candy pulled into taffy by the young folks.

The spiles, pails and barrels for collecting the sap, and the big iron kettles or the long metal "evaporators" for boiling it, have been scoured and made ready at the "sugar camp." Plenty of wood for fuel has been cut and piled. Now the trees must be tapped by drilling holes, with half-inch augers, at about waist height, about 2 inches deep and slanting slightly upward - from one to three taps per tree, depending on its age and health. The tree must be at least 40 years old and sugar maples do not yield their maximum until they are about 80 years old. Into each hole is inserted a metal spout, called a "spile", on which is hung a pail.

Old-timers say that sap starts flowing earlier on the south and east sides of a tree but on the north side gives the longest run. The flow is very sensitive to weather changes, slowing down when there are strong cold winds, stopping altogether in a prolonged cold snap, best when the nights are frosty and the days are warm and sunny. An average season lasts about a month, with the sap flowing on about one-half of the days. A prolonged warm spell causes the buds to swell on the trees and ends the season. The late "buddy" sap has a waddy taste. The early sap makes the finest syrup and sugar. A good tree will yield from 2 to 3 gallons per day. From 4 to 6 gallons are required to make one pound of maple sugar, and 30 gallons or more are required to make one gallon of syrup.

Maple sugar was one of the Indians' most important foods. Salt was a scarce article, so they seasoned almost all their cooking, especially meats, with maple sugar in lieu of salt. They allowed some sap to sour into vinegar, and fermented some to make alcoholic drink. They cooked venison with vinegar and then sweetened it with maple sugar - similar to the sweet-sour cookery of the Germans and other Europeans. They drank the sap, sometimes adding the sap of box elder, silver maple, yellow birch, black birch, or shagbark hickory. The children poured thick syrup on snow to make candy, as our children do, or greased their hands and pulled it into taffy.

The Indian cut a diagonal or a V-shaped rash in a tree with his stone ax. His spiles were of alder, elderberry or sumac - from which the pithy center could be easily pushed out - or were spouts whittled from yellow birch. Some collected the sap in hollowed-out 3-foot lengths of basswood fibers and waterproofed vessels of birch bark, with the inner bark on the outside, sewed with basswood fibers and waterproofed with pitch from boiling Jack pine cones. The sugar was stored in "moksks" - birchbark vessels sometimes shaped like a canoe, or like an animal, but usually like the lower half of a pyramid.

Only his mother could love a sap from the "family tree"

in Tractor Spreaders

Tough, heavy manure hauling in wet, slippery fields or feed lots causes little worry for the owner of a John Deere Model "H" Spreader. Why? Because of its surefootedness and strength.

The weight of the load is balanced properly for best traction of the spreader and tractor wheels. You're able to haul manure every day of the year... get maximum returns from every load.

The John Deere is built entirely of steel—has an abundance of strength to withstand the strains of heavy-duty tractor operation and mechanical loading. The low, easy-to-load box and frame are one unit—rigidly braced and trussed to prevent sagging or bending.

Add to these advantages such better-performance features as the shielded moving parts, extra-heavy axle, big-capacity beaters mounted on high-grade roller bearings, convenient operating levers, and many others. You'll agree—the Model "H" has everything you need in a tractor-drawn spreader. See us for complete details... soon.

FORMER MOKENA RES.—

ther, who was living there.
When I explained to Mrs. Spitzer that it was a rule of the air lines that all travelers over eighty have to have statements from their physicians saying they are able to stand the trip, she replied, "I don't blame the air lines. They wouldn't want to have a lot of old corpses on their hands!"

Like a veteran air traveler, Mrs. Spitzer boarded the Constellation and seven and a half hours later wired that her brother and all his family were on hand to meet her at the Los Angeles airport for a big, happy reunion.

When she stopped by on her return to Chicago to tell us about the trip, she raved about the wonders of flying and the breath-taking beauty of California. She smiled and said, "Tommy when I put my toes in the Pacific, I just wished that Daddy and I could have started all over again, and spent our lives in California."

It made me so happy that what had started out to be a little incidental trip of ten miles to the loop had developed into such a pleasant journey for our eighty-four-year-old traveler of the month.

It is things like meeting such fine people as Mrs. Spitzer that makes me the luckiest emcee in radio.

Mason Pledges Vote Against Movie Tax

Representative Noah M. Mason, (R.-Oglesby) today was reassuring movie patrons "by the thousands" in his 15th Illinois District that he will vote to repeal the wartime excise tax of 20 percent on admissions.
A member of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, the Oglesby Republican is in a better position than most Congressmen to do something about it too.

Mason has been swamped with more than 15,000 demands from constituents that the admissions tax to movies and other entertainment be removed. Unable to answer them all, he has asked theatre managers, radio stations, and newspapers in his District to record him for movie excise tax repeal.

Bobzin-Swinford Post 1098

The next regular meeting of the Bobzin-Swinford Post 1098 of Frankfort, will be held Monday, March 13, in the Frankfort village hall starting at 8 o'clock sharp. A bulletin has been sent out to all members by the post adjutant stating the major issues that will be presented to the membership at this meeting.

In another column in this newspaper there is printed an address by Lester R. Bengston, Rehabilitation Director, Illinois American Legion, in this address Mr. Bengston attacks the statements by a so-called taxpayers' group about what they know about the Veterans Administration.

It is to the benefit of veteran to take an interest in the political situation being raised in Washington today. Every act of Congress passed today may mean your welfare tomorrow.

To the Veterans living in the Mokena, Frankfort and Lincoln Estates are you have two organizations fighting your battles for you in Washington. These two posts belong to the two biggest veterans groups in the country. They are the American Legion, represented by the Bobzin-Swinford Post 1098 of Frankfort and the Wm. Martin Post 725 of the veterans of Foreign Wars which has its post home in Mokena. These two posts may be small in size but they carry weight in political circles because they represent so many votes to the politicians and every veteran that joins one or the other of these two posts gives that organization a larger representation before Congress. Many Veterans say, "I'm not sick. I don't need the Veterans administration." You won't need it now but wait: you may need it in the next 10 or 15 years. Who will take care of you then when some tropical disease over takes you and you need the medical aid that the VA can offer you?

Veterans, give it your attention. Give your support to them in the form of your membership card today.

AUXILIARY NEWS

The Auxiliary unit of the Bobzin-Swinford Post 1098 will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening, March 9 in the Frankfort village hall starting at 8 o'clock.

Candidate Takes Leave of Absence From Bank Work

As part of providing more time for his campaign for the Republican nomination for county treasurer of Will county in the April 11 primary, Byron Hunte of Beecher has taken a leave from his work with the First National Bank in Chicago Heights where he has been employed for the last two years. He resides with his wife and daughter in Beecher and is at present a director of the Farmers State Bank of Beecher, having been assistant cashier there before going to the Chicago Heights bank.

Hunte has been active in Will County GOP circles prior to his entry into the Army early in 1941. Entering the service as a private, he rose to the rank of Captain, serving for five years with eighteen months overseas.

The candidate states that "he feels there is a definite spot for new blood in things political—and that our taxes, where they are going and what they are providing, is one of our major problems today."

Under The Cross Of Malta

At the next regular Post meeting this evening, March 9, Post officers for this year will be nominated and the election will be held March 23. Commander Saarela requests all members in good standing to be present at each of these meetings, also for those who have not yet paid their dues to try and do so soon.

Tickets are now on sale for our first public dance in our new ballroom, which takes place March 17. You can get your tickets from any Post member.

A committee from the Auxiliary are today taking measurements of the windows of the ballroom for the purpose of knowing how much material will be required to make drapes. It seems there will be a potluck lunch of some sort at someone's home soon and the above mentioned material we think will turn out to be beautiful drapes, but the ladies are wondering how on earth are they going to attach the drapes on a concrete block wall. Can anyone offer them help? — Glenn C. Peterson, publicity officer.
